INVOCATION

Padmaasane Padmakare sarvalokaika poojithe
Narayana priyadevi supreethaa bhava sarvada ||

Oh! Goddess Lakshmi, Salutations to you - “one who is sitting in the lotus, holding lotuses, one who is prayed by the entire universe, one who is very dear to Lord Sriman Narayana, such a Goddess Lakshmi Devi, always be benevolent to me”.
Tirumala hill shrine has been a dais for festivals, rituals that are being conducted throughout the year. Everyday many festivals and rituals are being performed to Lord Srinivasa in a grand manner in Tirumala. These festivals and rituals have been categorized as daily, weekly, monthly and annual sevas. Among annual rituals or sevas, Pavithrotsavam is the most important ritual. In Tirumala temple, all the rituals are being conducted as per Vaikhanasa agama tradition.

‘Pavithrotsavam’ is a three day ritual performed in Tirumala to purify the acts of all omissions and commissions known or unknown made during the year. In this utsavam, (Pavithrams) garlands made of sanctified threads will be adorned to Swami and His Consorts and also to various deities inside the temple, prakaram etc. On all the three days, special pujas will perform. This year due to corona pandemic all the rituals will perform in Ekantham.

The chanting of the celestial name ‘Govinda’ is a medicine for driving out corona from the world. So, let us chant Govinda Naamam from our houses and drive away corona and seek the blessings of Lord ‘Sapthagirisa’.

Sravana Masam is the holiest of months falling in the ‘Dakshinayana’. As the moon traverses through ‘Sravana Nakshatra’ on the full moon day, this month is named Sravana Masam. This month is most auspicious for worship of Goddess Sri Mahalakshmi. Any Puja or Vrata performed during this month rewards immensely. Further, every enterprise undertaken in Sravanamasam is blessed with immense success.

Sravana Masam marks the commencement of the rainy season. Almost every day of this month is auspicious to appease gods. On Mondays, the devotees of Lord Siva fast throughout the day and perform ‘Rudrabhisheka’ or ‘Bilvarchana’ in the evening to get cleansed of their sins.

A number of festivals are celebrated during this month. The most important occasion of this month is ‘Mangala Gowri Vratam’ which is also called ‘Sravana Mangalavara Vratam.’ It is performed on all Tuesdays of Sravana Masam. Apart from married women, the newly married women are also initiated into this Vrata in the very first Sravana Masam following their marriage.

‘Varalakshmi Vratam’ is performed on the first Friday before the full moon day in this month. In case of inconvenience, it can be performed on any subsequent Friday. This Vrata was taught by Lord Siva Himself to His consort Goddess Parvathi ensuring peace, prosperity, and marital bliss to whoever performs it with devotion and dedication.

Auspicious occasions like ‘Suddha Dwadasi’ and ‘Damodora Dwadasi’ also fall in Sravana Masam. Devotees worship Lord Vishnu by fasting on ‘Suklapaksha Ekadasi’ longing for ‘Moksha’ and a permanent abode at Vaikuntha. ‘Suklapaksha Pournami’ is also celebrated as ‘Rakhi Pournami’. On this day, sisters tie-up ‘Rakhis’ to brothers to mark their sisterly affection and kinship and to guard them from evil effects.

Sravana Pournami also happens to be Hayagriva Jayanti. According to the legend, demons Madhu and Kaitabha stole the Vedas from Brahma when he was asleep and hid them in the ocean. Lord Vishnu took the incarnation of Hayagriva with a horse’s head and retrieved the Vedas by killing the demons on his thighs. Hence, Hayagriva is considered God of knowledge and wisdom. Students can worship Lord Hayagriva for his blessings to gain knowledge and wisdom and prosper in studies.

Srikrishna Jayanti is celebrated with a lot of fanfare all over the country on Janmashtami, i.e. Shravana Bahula Ashtami. It is the eighth incarnation of Vishnu on the earth to punish the evil and protect the virtuous. Krishna’s life is full of miracles right from his childhood like killing Putana, Shakatasura and other demons and lifting the Govardhana hill on his little finger, etc. Lord Krishna enlightened Arjuna with his Bhagavad Gita about the do’s and don’ts in life. Everyone should read this holy book of wisdom for personality enrichment.

Naga Panchami is celebrated on the fifth day after Full Moon day to worship the snake god Naga for better health. The devotees who perform the said Vratas and festivals are sure to receive the divine blessings.

Let us remember that ‘Cleanliness is next only to Godliness’. While taking part in these auspicious occasions, let us observe physical distance and wear masks to ward off the evil of Covid-19.

“OM SARVE JANA SUKHINO BHAVANTU”
The supreme saint-poet, ‘Padakavitha Pitamaha’, Sri Tallapaka Annamacharya composed thousands of sankirtanas, mostly on the primal couple, Lord Sri Venkateswara and His consort Sri Alamelumanga, bhakti outpourings from his devout heart. The dominating emotions are Bhakti, Sharanagathi and Shringara - the divine love.

As we are in the month of Sravana, there are many festivals that are lined up (though celebrated in low key due to the pandemic). The two most important festivals people look forward to are — Sri Krishnashtami and Sri Varalakshmi vratam.

Annamacharya composed many sankirtanas on Alamelumanga, who is Sri Mahalakshmi herself. The spiritual-musical-bhakti ardour filled in them remains unparalleled in Bhakti literature. A devotee par excellence, a saint-poet extraordinaire, Annamayya’s compositions are exemplary in many aspects - in their innate philosophy of bhakti, poetic lyricism. A great Sree Vaishnava scholar, Annamayya’s birth is no ordinary one - he was the amsa (part), an emanation of the Lord’s sword Nandaka.

Alamelumanga, the sovereign queen, is the compassionate mother of the three worlds. With a glowing moon-like face, she is an embodiment of grace and beauty filled with all auspicious attributes. She is the power and form of Lord Srinivasa’s compassion, “Srinivasasasya Karuna amivaroopinee” whose sole divine purpose is protecting and blessing her Lord’s and her devotees.

Such a goddess herself appeared before Annamayya when he was climbing the Tirumala Hill for the very first time and offered him the sacred prasadam that was partaken by Lord Srinivasa himself. No wonder Annamayya could pour out bhakti soaked melodious sankirtanas from his innermost heart. Annamayya’s all absorbing love and devotion towards the Universal mother comes out in his distinctive imagination and with aesthetic sensibility in many sankirtanas – He praises her as “Paramaatmudaina Hari Pattapuraniwineevu”- “You are the reigning queen of Lord Hari who is the Supreme Soul.

As a master of drawing similes and analogies, Annamayya composed very beautiful and sublime sankirtanas eulogizing all the attributes of Lakshmi Devi. Here is his one such sankirtana -

“Behold O women folk, sing the song of benediction
She is with her Lord, this divine lady
“ChoodikuduthaNaanchaari”

She is herself Sree Mahalakshmi, can there be dearth for adornments?
She is the mother of Manmatha, can there be dearth for beautiful looks?
She is the co-born of the Moon,
can there be dearth for graceful elegance?
She is a lady with a tender body, this divine lady,
ChoodikuduthaNaanchaari

She is the daughter of the ocean, can her solemn dignity ever fall short?
She is the primal mother of the Universe,
can her compassion ever fall short?
She resides in the lotus, can her cool soothing to her soothing
to her soothing
She is the boundless deity, this divine lady,
ChoodikuduthaNaanchaari

She is the one worshipped by even the divinities, can her glory ever fall short?
She is related to ‘Amrutham’, the ambrosia, can her blissful joy ever fall short?
Lord Sree Venkateswara himself came eagerly to marry her
This young maiden, the ChoodikuduthaNaanchaari.

(ChoodikuduthaNaanchaari “- The correct word is ‘Choodioduthanaachiyaar’ Annamacharya has made it ‘Choodikudutha’ and the reference is from Amuktamalyada - the one who offered the garland decked by her to the Lord)

In Shringara sankirtanas on Lakshmi Devi, the aesthetic beauty and finesse in expressions of Shringarabhavamis beautiful. The songs like “Palukutenelatalli” “EmokoChigurutadharamuna” ‘Komma tana muthyaalakongu, “Inthicheluvameeethaniki etc are replete with erotic expressions. The purpose behind these Shringara sankirthans is to gain oneness with God - the unison or union conveyed in the lyrics point to that divine merging however bold his expressions sound. Annamayya was a divine saakshi (witness) to the amorous sport and he sang the lyrics with utmost devotion and reverence and the spiritual bhakthi ardour he filled them with stands exemplary. Metaphysical and spiritual sense of transcendental love, Annamayya expresses very explicitly sometimes or implicitly, but the profound feelings of devotion underlie all that.

Alamelumanga’s super charging benevolent effect, her divine potential Annamayya glorifies in a most beatific manner - the splendour of her very presence manifesting as the abundance, the affluence of the Lord’s abode in thissankirtana –

She is the abundant prosperity of Garudadri and Vedadri
She is the treasure giving Chintamani gem

She, being born in the milky ocean resides in the lotus
She is the beloved Lakshmi of Lord Narasimha
She, the glorious one is the supreme mother of the worlds
She is Indira, who reigns over the Universe
She is the lotus born Kamalaakantha who bestows great wealth
She is Goddess Rama, the mother of Manmantha
She is Haripriya, the inseparable one from her Lord Hari
She is Goddess Sri, the very embodiment of wealth and plenty.

She is the self manifested Goddess Rama
She is the supremely benevolent Alamelumanga
Here in Venkatadri and in Ahobilam
She is the eternally existing treasure.

Annamayya’s sankirtanas help devotees to repeat mentally and orally Lakshmi Devi’s names and qualities that can confer material and spiritual wealth. Usually everybody prays to her “Grant me prosperity, grant me name and fame, grant me children, grant me beauty and beautiful objects that I desire”. There is nothing which cannot be obtained either on earth or heaven that cannot be bestowed by Lakshmi Devi, the treasure-house of compassion. Here is one more beautiful sankirtana–

“Jayalakshmi Varalakshmi.......”

O Jayalakshmi, the victorious one,
O Varalakshmi, the boon bestower
O Sangraama Veera Lakshmi, the valorous one in the battlefield
You are the beloved of Lord SriHari

You protect the Brahmas of every creative cycle with divine affection
You are the eternal companion of your Lord Govinda
Such a mother, you please reside in our home too
O Jayalakshmi O Varalakshmi

You are the golden statue like beauty with sixteen ‘Kalas’
You are the beautiful lady praised eternally by the Vedas
You are right in front of us as the consort of Sri Venkateswara
You are the repository of our wealth, we all belong to you
O Jayalakshmi O Varalakshmi

In Lakshmi Devi’s reverential honour, worship and benediction Annamayya wrote the sankirtana....Ksheerabdhikanyaku....! When sung with devotional fervour, it will bestow auspiciousness, prosperity and good luck and will help the devotee achieve his/her righteous wishes.

She is that very ‘Deepa’, the self-illuminated lamp, the pristine divine light that dispels darkness of ignorance from people’s minds when ardently worshipped. She drives away the qualities of ‘alakshmi’ like inauspiciousness, indolence, ignorance, egoism, anger, ardent attachment and other such ignoble characteristics.

Many mantras, incantations may consist of words that have simple meaning - shabdaardha, esoteric meaning -goodaardha, and profoundly symbolic meaning hidden within - Nigoodardha. But these powerful mantra -like sankirtanas of Annamayya flow with simplicity and devout musicality, despite containing all the power any mantra can possess and they reach everybody and bless everybody.

Salutations to Sri Mahalakshmi..!
“KalouVenkataNayakahā”. It means the only protector of the entire universe in this Kaliyuga is Lord Venkateswara—the presiding deity in Tirumala. With His divine grace several festivals and rituals with the name of Nithyotsavam (Daily), Vaarotsavam (weekly), Pakshotsavam (fortnight), Maasotsavam (monthly) and Samvatsarotsavam (yearly) are being performed in the temple of Tirumala.

AnivaraAsthnam is one among such annual rituals that is being conducted in Tirumala in an elegant way. As it will be the last day in Tamil month Ani, it is called AnivaraAsthnam. Dakshinayana will also start on this day itself. On this day Asthanam will takes place to Sri Malayappaswami and His consorts Sridevi and Bhudevi.

Asthanam means royal assembly. Lord Malayappaswami, Goddess Sridevi and Goddess Bhudevi will be seated in a golden Sarvabhupalavahanam facing Garudalvar in Gantamantapam. Vishvaksena, the commander in chief of the army will be seated in a separate plank facing south direction in the same mantapam. After offering all kainkaryas (offerings) the authorities submit the account books showing income and expenditure of the previous year before the deity for the assurance. New account books for the next financial year will also be issued on this day.

In the evening flower palanquin (Pushpapallaki) seva is conducted for the Lord. This Palanquin is made with different fragrant flowers. Lord Malayappa swami along with Ammavarlu Sridevi and Bhudevi is taken in procession in this palanquin through holy mada streets (streets around the temple). Devotees will gather around the temple for their divine blessings. With this, the ritual will be concluded for that year.

But, this year, due to pandemic, procession had not been done.
The timeless appeal of Hinduism is that simple day to day life skills are entwined and intertwined in rituals and festivals and practices, all of which confluence into a state of Holistic wellness, namely physical, mental, emotional, psychological and even professional. The practices are aimed at a healthy self, a healthy family, a healthy society at large and finally a healthy world. As is aptly put: “VasudhaivaKutumbam” (the World is one family). The Hindu Panchangam or Alamanac is a classic example of flawless rendition of Science, Astrology, Astronomy followed by Mathematics and Physics.

The months are arranged as per the constellation and enmeshed in the months are Tithees (Dates) which project celebrations, lifestyle practices and dietary practices aimed at enrichment of the quality of life. Details of methodologies of Pooja Performance including concise recipes find pride of place in the haloed pages of the Vedas, they have been the fountain head of wisdom and knowledge for generations before us and will continue till infinitum.

This treatise is about a very favourite month for every woman, filled with the verve to self-enrichment. It is a spotlight on Shravanam.

The month of Shravanam is very significant because, it is believed to be the most auspicious. It usually comes in the month of August; all the days of this month are projections of piety and prayerfulness.

Shravanam is an important month for the newly married woman, as Shravanam rituals and Vrat of Goddess Lakshmi and Gowri have to be observed by her.

Shravanam is the month of prayers, and the name signifies Shravanam means listening, hence, every Bhakta believes that if devotion and prayers are offered during this month, Lord listens and since He is Bhaktavatsala, He obliges. Since time immemorial, Shravanam was meant to be auspicious month to start learning. Hence, upakarma takes place in this month to start studying Vedas, similarly a new Vratam is also undertaken at this time.

Shravana Somavara Vratam – Lord Shiva is worshipped on this day. All the Shiva Temples perform special Rudraabhishekam and Poojas on Mondays.

Mangala Gauri Vratam – This is truly significant for the newly married bride when she returns to the in-laws and starts her MangalaGauriVratam. This Vratam is for Goddess Gauri praying for the prosperity and blessings for her husband and for a fulfilled and joyous married life.

Varalakshmi Vratam – Varalakshmi Vratam is definitely the most popular and favourite of all lady devotees, since it is a time to indulge oneself with new jewellery and sarees. This Vratam is observed on all Fridays in the month of Shravanam. The Friday before the Pournami (full moon day) is the birthday of Goddess Lakshmidevi. Hence it is considered more special and many devotees begin the VaralakshmiVratham on this day. On this day, women perform the VaralakshmiVratam and pray to Goddess Mahalakshmi [Goddess of Wealth] for various things like good progeny and a long life for the husband.

Eight forces or energies are recognised in our Scriptures, they are known as Siri (Wealth), Bhu (Earth), Sarasvathi (Wisdom), Preethi (Love), Keerthi (Fame), Shanthi (Peace), Santhushti (Contentment) and Pushti (Strength). Each one of these forces is called a ‘Lakshmi’ hence:

- Aadi Lakshmi (the Protector)
- Dhana Lakshmi (Goddess of Wealth)
- Dhairy Lakshmi (Goddess of Courage)
- Sowbhagya Lakshmi (Goddess of Prosperity)
- Vijaya Lakshmi (Goddess of Victory)
- Dhanya Lakshmi (Goddess of Nourishment)
- Santaana Lakshmi (Goddess of Progeny)
- Vidya Lakshmi (Goddess of Wisdom)

All the eight forces combined are called the Ashtalakshmis or the eight Lakshmis. Worshipping of Goddess Varalakshmi on this day is equivalent to worshipping Ashtalakshmis.
According to Skanda Puranam, once goddess Parvati asked Lord Shiva to recommend a vrata that will be beneficial to women and Lord Shiva told her about Vrata and Puja Vidhi (methodology of Worship) of Varalakshmi Vratham. Then Lord Shiva narrated the story of ‘Charumati’ to Goddess Parvathi.

In the kingdom of Magadha lived a Brahmin woman called Charumathi. She is devoted to her family, served her husband and her parents-in-law with utmost devotion. Goddess Lakshmi impressed by her sincerity appeared in her dream and asked her to worship Her as Varalakshmi and all her wishes will be fulfilled. It is said that she has also prescribed the Friday of Sravana month before the full moon day for the Vratham.

Charumathi’s family encouraged her to perform the Puja as the Goddess has asked her to do and finding her devotion endearing other women in the town joined her in performing the puja.

Significance of Praying to Lord Vishnu in Lakshmi Pooja

The name Vishnu really means pervading everywhere, and Lakshmi His consort, is symbolical of the forces found everywhere. As health, wealth and prosperity depend upon the rhythmic play of the Ashtalakshmi or eightforces, the worship of Lakshmi is said to be to obtain these three. Hence this festival is celebrated and Vrata is observed for invoking the blessings of Sri Varalakshmi by women for the welfare of their Sowbhagyam (marital bliss), Santana (children) and Sakala Ishta Kamya Phala Siddhi (have all the desired boons fulfilled). But as both Sri Maha Vishnu and Maha Lakshmi are Divine forces and are inseparable from each other they have to be prayed together always to seek the Blessings. Hence it is very much important to pray to Lord Vishnu before seeking the Blessings of the Goddess. Therefore Goddess Lakshmi and Vishnu are prayed together for material and spiritual prosperity through this Vratham.

Procedure

The lady of the house is supposed to wake up early and decorate the house with mango leaves, flowers and beautiful Rangolis. All the women who are participating in the Pooja, should be in their best attire. The form of worshipping Goddess Mahalakshmi is placing a kalasham [bronze pot] on a heap of rice after thoroughly cleaning it. After marking the Swastik on the kalasham, the goddess is worshiped with five kinds of leaves and a beetle nut.
The kalasham is filled with various things that differ from region to region. Most commonly things such as turmeric, comb, mirror, small black bangles and black beads are found in it. This is followed by singing of the Aarti and offering various sweet dishes also known as naivedyam to goddess Mahalakshmi. The Kalasham signifies infinite prosperity in the form of material wealth, food and peace of mind. Varamahalakshmi Vrata is a festival to propitiate the Goddess Lakshmi, the consort of Lord Vishnu. It is believed that Varamahalakshmi is that manifestation of the Goddess, who grants boons (“Vara”). A raksha, sacred thread is among the offerings and adorned on the wrists of women after the completion of the Pooja. This is worn to signify protection and piety, and several articles are given as gifts and charity to sumangalis. This pooja can be performed with no restriction to caste or creed. To this day, many women observe this traditional festival praying to Varamahalakshmi for her blessings in the form of wealth and well-being of their family. The Pooja begins with First Lord Ganesha worship as the PasupuGanapathi (Turmeric).

Varalakshmi is offered Shodasha Upacharas (16 forms of services). Sri Lakshmi Sahasra Nama along with Sri Vishnu Sahasranama is recited. Vrata Katha (story) is recited to the other family members and friends attending the Pooja. Naivedyam (Offerings) has the most important place in this Vratam. Nine or Eleven varieties of delicacies are offered to the Varamahalakshmi.

“Kshirannam” is the most important dish as it is said to be the favourite of the Goddess. Mangalaharati for the Goddess Varalakshmi with the singing of the bhajan and songs praising the Goddess. The Puja or Vrat does not conclude until a DakshinaTambulam (donation) is offered to the Brahmin. In the Evening all the woman visit each other’s home and take the Tambulam (as per their wish).

Other Auspicious occasions include the Saturdays in Shravanam which are considered to be the day devoted to Lord Venkateswara. Devotees prefer to perform Satyanarayana Vratam on this month too.

Jai bolo Varalakshmi mathajiki jai...
Guru occupies a pre-eminent place in Indian tradition. ‘Guru’ means one who leads us from darkness (ignorance) to light (knowledge). In Indian literature there are many stories depicting the Guru-Sishya relationship. In this article, we will examine some of them and see what lessons we can learn from those stories.

Sukracharya and Kacha

This story appears in the AdiParva of Mahabharata.

Brihaspati and Sukracharya were the Gurus of Devas (Gods) and Danavas (Asuras). The Asuras killed by Devas were revived by Sukra with Sanjivani – knowledge of bringing the dead back to life. Brihaspati did not possess that knowledge. Hence, Devas told Kacha, the eldest son of Brihaspati: “Worship Sukra and bring us that knowledge. You alone are capable. No one can”.

Kacha approached Sukracharya and said, “O illustrious one! Please accept me as your disciple. I am the grandson of Angirasa and son of Brihaspati. My name is Kacha. Accepting you as my supreme preceptor, I will practice brahmacharya. Therefore, allow me”.

Sukracharya was immensely pleased with the truthfulness, humility and promise of brahmacharya and accepted him as his sishya. He said, “You deserve respect and I will treat you with respect. By doing so, Brihaspati will also be honoured”. Although Sukra knew that Kacha was the son of his rival and why he came, he accepted Kacha because he was pleased with the demeanour of Kacha. That is the hallmark of an uttama Guru.

Kacha was very friendly with Devayani, the beloved daughter of Sukracharya. He pleased her with singing, dancing, and music. Yet, he rigidly stuck to his vows given to his Guru.

The Danavas, out of hatred for Brihaspati and to protect knowledge of sanjivani, killed Kacha. On Devayani’s pleading, Sukra revived Kacha with sanjivani. On another occasion, the Danavas killed him again. They burnt him, ground the ashes, and mixed with wine and fed to Sukra. Having been spurred by Devayani, the Acharya realised that Kacha was inside his stomach. He told his daughter that Kacha could only reappear by ripping his stomach apart.

Sukracharya told Kacha, “Accept the knowledge of sanjivani. Return to life as my son. Then bring me back to life after I leave my body. When you emerge from my stomach, act in accordance with dharma”. Receiving the knowledge, Kacha emerged from the stomach and then revived his Guru.

When Kacha was prepared to leave for his home, Devayani told him and asked him to marry her. He refused and said, “You are my Guru’s daughter and, according to dharma you are my sister. You should not speak to me in this way”.

In this story Kacha behaved like a good sishya, always upholding dharma. He won the heart of his Guru by his behaviour and achieved his objective.

Dronacharya and Arjuna

Dronacharya taught Pandavas, Kauravas and others Dhanurvidya (archery). Karna also joined. Though Drona gave equal instructions to all, yet Arjuna became the foremost of all in skill. He was convinced that none of his sishyas would equal Arjuna.

One day when Arjuna was taking food, the lamp went out due to heavy wind. He continued eating in the dark easily by taking his hand to his mouth. Realising this to be the result of the force of habit, he practiced with his bow in the night. Seeing this Drona promised Arjuna to make him the greatest archer in the world.

Once Drona wanted to test his students’ skill in archery. He arranged an artificial bird to be placed on the top of a tree. First, he called Yudhishthira and said, “Aim with your arrow and shoot the bird as soon as I order.” As Yudhishthira stood aiming at the bird, Drona asked, “Do you see the tree, myself, your brothers and the bird?” When Yudhishthira replied in the affirmative, Drona was displeased and told him, “Stand back. It is not for you to strike the target.”

When Drona asked all his disciples one after another the same question, they all replied as Yudhishthira did. Then, he asked Arjuna to take aim at the bird. When he took position, the Guru asked him, “Do you see the bird, the tree and myself?” Savyasachi replied, “I see only the bird. I do not see the tree or yourself.” Being pleased, Drona said, “If you see the bird, describe it to me.” Partha said: “I see the head of the bird, but I do not see its body.” Drona was filled with delight. Arjuna instantly shot the bird.

Later, Drona taught Arjuna the irresistible weapon, named Brahmashira, and said, “None will ever become a superior archer to you. You will be invincible and greatly illustrious”.

Drona knew what was needed to be good in archery and he conducted an aptitude test to his sishyas. Arjuna with his determination, hard work, and devotion to Guru won the heart of Drona and became the greatest archer.
Parasurama and Karna

This story is from Shanti Parva.

One day Karna approached Drona privately and said, “I desire to master the Brahma-astra, for I wish to fight Arjuna”. Drona refused.

Then Karna went to Parasurama and said, “I am a Brahmana of Bhrigu’s race”. Rama accepted him as sishya.

One day Karna walked on the seashore by the side of Parasurama’s hermitage. While thus walking, he inadvertently and unwittingly killed the Homadhenu of a brahmin. The brahmin got angry and gave him a curse, “While fighting your bitter enemy, the Earth shall entangle the wheel of your chariot. Then he will cut off your head”.

Parasurama was very pleased with Karna’s prowess and devotion and taught him everything about the Brahma-astra. One day the tired Parasurama, placing his head on Karna’s lap, slept soundly. Then a dreadful worm began to pierce Karna’s thigh. Though the pain was unbearable Karna endured it, lest his guru should wake up. When Karna’s blood touched Parasurama, he woke up and enquired what happened. Karna replied, “I am a Suta, son of Radha. I behaved thus for mastering the weapons.” Parasurama cursed the trembling Karna, “Since you have behaved deceptively from avarice of weapons, this Brahma-astra shall not remain in your memory when you are engaged with a warrior equal to you. Go hence, this is not a place for a person who behaves dishonestly”.

Here Karna lied to his Guru and in the process, got two curses, which led to his ultimate demise in the hands of Arjuna. The lesson to be learnt is that any vidya acquired through lies and immoral means will not help the person. Moreover, Karna did not tell truth about his curses to Duryodhana. If Duryodhana knew about the curses he would have thought many times before venturing for the Mahabharata War, because he relied mainly on Karna to conquer Arjuna.

Arjuna and Uttara

This story is from Virata Parva.

The Pandavas, after spending 12 years in the forests, had to spend one year in disguise. They were serving Virata, king of MatsyaDesa. Arjuna, disguised as Brihannala, taught Uttara, the daughter of King Virata, dance, music and other arts.

In order to expose the Pandavas, the Kauravas and Trigartas invaded Matsya kingdom from the north and south sides, respectively, and robbed the king’s cattle. The four Pandavas defeated Susharma, the leader of the Trigartas. Arjuna, with Prince Uttara Kumara as his charioteer, defeated the Kauravas.

Then the Pandavas revealed their true form. Virata offered his daughter Uttara to Arjuna for marriage. Arjuna replied, “O King! Dwelling in your inner quarters, I observed your daughter. Whether in private or in public, she always used to confide in me as her father. Because of my skills in dancing and singing, she loved me. She always regards me as her Acharya (Guru). I have been pure and in control of my senses. Hence, I shall accept your daughter as my daughter-in-law.” Accordingly, Princess Uttara was married to Abhimanju.

Sandeepany and Sri Krishna

This is from Bhagavatam.

Krishna and Balarama were sent to Sage Sandeepany of Avanti for formal education and training in warfare and statecraft. They were taught the Vedas and Upanishads, and the sixty-four vidyas. Then the Sage taught them the secrets of various astras, the sciences of warfare and state administration.

After completing their education, they asked the Guru as to what they should offer him as Guru-Dakshina. The Sage requested that his son who was missing during a pilgrimage to the Prabhas – Teertha might be brought back to him. They went to Yama Loka, recovered the boy and presented him to the Guru.

In the traditional Gurukula system in India, the Guru did not charge any fee. After completing the education, the sishya has to pay Guru-Dakshina according to his capacity (yathashakti). Krishna, with His divine powers, brought back the boy from Yama, the God of Death. That is His capability.

This story tells how much a capable sishya can accomplish for his Guru.

Sri AdiSankara and Totaka

Totaka was one of the eminent disciples of Sri Sankaracharya. Giri, Totaka’s pre-monastic name, was rendering selfless service to the Master. He did not have much formal education, but he would listen attentively to the Master’s erudite expositions.

One day, the disciples assembled for the class and the Acharya sat silently looking hither and thither. After some time, one of the disciples politely asked the Master the reason for not starting the class. The Acharya replied that Giri had not come. The disciples wondered how it would matter, since he would anyway not be able to understand the lessons!

At that time Giri was washing the Master’s clothes in the river Tunga. A benign feeling of compassion emanated from the Master’s mind and enveloped the heart of Giri, soaking it with his grace and blessings. Giri collected the clothes, reached the Master and prostrated at his feet. In an ecstatic outburst he sang a hymn in praise of the Guru in “Totaka” chandas. The disciples were astounded and observed a rare glow of spiritual enlightenment in the face of Giri. They understood that he had the rare privilege of obtaining the Master’s grace. The Acharya exhorted the students to develop sraddha, which was the basis of all true knowledge.

Later, the Acharya initiated Giri into sannyasa and gave him the name Totaka, after the chandas of the hymn he sang. When Sri Sankaracharya established the four AmnayaPeethams, Totaka was appointed as the first Acharya of JyotirMutt, near Badari.

This story tells how a Guru’s grace can transform a sishya. For deserving that benevolence, the sishya must develop utmost sraddha.

Salutations to all the Gurus…
Goddess Lakshmi is considered as the goddess of wealth and prosperity. She also represents prosperity. In olden days prosperity was considered on the basis of number of cows and horses. Our ancient mythology says that Goddess Lakshmi was rose out of Milk Ocean when the great churning was done by the gods and asuras (demons). Lord Vishnu balanced the Mandara mountain to give stability to the process of churning.

One of the names of Goddess Lakshmi is Gajalakshmi. The kumbhasthala (skull) of an elephant is considered as the abode of Goddess Lakshmi. There is a description in a verse which indicates that two elephants do abhishekam to Goddess Lakshmi with golden pots full of nectar. In srisukta her gorgeous nature and beauty have been lucidly described. She adores golden and silver ornaments on her body. She is considered as an embodiment of wealth.

According to srisukta, she is awakened everyday by the trumpeting (gheenkara) of elephants (Hastinaada prabhodhineem). Goddess Lakshmi resides in the bosom of Lord Venkateswara. She is considered as anapaayinee which means inseparable. She cannot be separated from Lord of seven hills.

‘Sravana’ is the birth star of Lord Venkateswara. Thus the month of Sravana is considered auspicious for the worship of Goddess Lakshmi. As rains fall, farmers will be happy due to prosperity in the form of grains. Grains are also considered as another form of Goddess Lakshmi. In olden days grains were given to labourers in lieu of money.

How to obtain the grace of Goddess Lakshmi?

It’s a million-dollar question. Maintenance of personal hygiene is more important for the devotees of Goddess Lakshmi. Those devotees who want to get the grace of goddess of wealth should have pleasant and serene atmosphere in the house. Decoration of the place of worship and the place near the threshold with cow dung and flowers will invoke Goddess Lakshmi. She will shower her
The following mantra should be recited for 1008 times with a rosary.

Gomatishakras are also considered as replicas of goddess of wealth. These are also available in the ocean. One should get the chakra mantra energised by any guru or priest. Worship of Lord Kubera will also give the grace of Goddess Lakshmi. It is described in the puranas that great treasures namely shankha and padma are under the control of Kubera.

The bilva tree is also considered as a symbol of Goddess Lakshmi. Legend says that Goddess Lakshmi was born out of a bilva tree. Doing homa with bilva fruits will bring prosperity to the devotees. While doing homa, srisukta mantras should be recited. In srisukta Lord Agnideva is described as the medium between the Goddess and the devotees. Homa with lotus seeds will also bring prosperity.

Let us worship Goddess Mahalakshmi with devotion so that we will get material as well as spiritual benefits.
In Sri Vaishnava Sampradaya, the contribution of Sri Vaishnava Acharyas is memorable. In this, a brief write up of two great Acharyas viz. TirukkannamangaiAndan and EchchambadiJeeyar, born in the Tamil month of Ani, Sravanam Star is given below.

TirukkannamangaiAndan was born in Tirkkannamangai, a village near Kodavasal, located in Tiruvarur District of Tamil Nadu, under Sravana Star in the Tamil month Ani during tenth century. His original name is Lakshminathacharya. Being the nephew of SrimanNathamunigal, he first got upadesa of Dvaya mantra and learnt NalayiraDivyaPrabandham, from him.

While instructing Tiruvoymozhi hymn (5.2.1) Poligapoliapoliapoli, SrimanNathamunigal narrated Andan, the history of his acquiring the Prabandham from Nammalwar and also his dream about bhavishyathacharya (Sri Ramanuja). Having heard this Andan was excited with so much of faith when he has relationship with him.

One day two, hunters passed through Tirukkannamangai with their hunting dogs. Having seen the beauty of the temple and the tank, they decided to have darshan of Lord and then move forward. They placed their leather-chappals outside the temple having tied the dogs for safeguarding the chappals. They bathed in the tank and worshipped the Goddess and the Lord Bhaktavatsala. In the meanwhile, one dog nibbled the other chappal. Having seen this, another dog also tried to nibble the other chappal. To safeguard their chief’s chappals, each other quarrelled fiercely. In the meantime, the town people assembled there to watch this fight. In the fight, one dog killed the other dog. Having seen this and felt for his sake, it has lost its body, he killed the other dog. Having killed both of them, both the hunters argued with each other and at last ended their lives.

At that time, TirukkannamangaiAndan, came there for doing service of offering flowers to the Lord. He heard the news and thought of its validity. For the sake of their own, they lost their lives. He thought that the Lord is graceful to His devotees who worship sincerely and He won’t give away. From that day onwards, he left his properties, wealth etc. and began worshipping Lord Bhaktavatsala daily and stays under the Magizha tree. Having passed some days, one day, Lord Bhaktavatsala desired to give him liberation. He informed through dream to all people in that town that He will give liberation to TirukkannamangaiAndan and disappeared. In his dream also, the Lord appeared and informed him. The next day, as usual, he bathed in the tank and reached the deity’s feet. When all are looking there, a flash came and disappeared. The next moment, Andan attained Moksha. It is said that in the SthalaPurana that Lord Bhaktavatsala gave Moksha to Andan for his servitude, devotion and saranagathi (absolute surrender).

An oral version of tradition in Tirumaalai (Hymn 38) of TondaradippodiAlwar, it is said that a person in whose house a dog was living that was killed by another person and again committed himself killed. Having seen this incident, Andan thought that if the situation of a person who was very much attached to his subordinates for the sake, he ruined himself, the Lord will not leave us to Yama and hence, he stayed at the door-step of the temple entrance like a dog during his life time.

He wrote an invocatory hymn for NachchiyarTirumozhi which enlightens five stages of Andal’s beauty and servitude. In its commentary, Pillai LokamJeeyar describes that Andal as a bright light of Periyalwar and Srivilliputhur. Further he describes Her as a dear companion to Sridevi who was born on the Lotus. She is beautiful like a peacock, reigned Srivilliputhur, called Malli Nadu, by Her attributes. She is soft by nature and is in unison with Krishna.

There is an anecdote in Tiruvoymozhi (9.2.1) that when Andan was sweeping the leaves under the Magizha tree, his classmate who was an atheist asked him ‘the Lord is a refugee; we are non-desired men. Now what is the result for this grief? Andan showed the sweeping place and non-sweeping place to the atheist and asked whether he could see any difference between the two places.

In Bhagavat Vishayam Adayavalaindan Arumbadam under Tiruvoymozhi (4.6.8), there is an incident cited from the life of Andan. When Andan was living in Tirukkkanamangai, during the twilight of his life, one of the disciples of Andan asked him as to what is the way out for him from this samsara. He immediately replied to stay near him. He also followed his words and stayed with him. This resulted in him attaining Paramapada on the third day of Andan attaining moksha. This establishes the faith on the blessings of a Sri Vaishnava Acharya which gives quick result.

In Varthamalai text, (109 Varthai) there is a saying that Lord’s Consort, Draupathi and TirukkannaMangaiAndan established that the Lord is the only means to attain Him. In Sri VachanaBhushanam of PillaiLokacharya, there is a Sutra (80) which says that one has to follow consort, Draupathi and TirukkannamangaiAndan in aiming the Lord only as the means to attain Him. In another Sutra (82), Pillai Lokacharya says that Sita discarded her effort in safeguarding herself; Draupadi discarded her shyness and TirukkannamangaiAndan left his effort of practicing other means than the only means Lord.

Among the disciples of Yamunacharya, TirumaliruncholaiDasar, otherwise called Sri Azhagappiran, born in Echchampadi, near Tirumala, was blessed with two sons. His second son named Sri Venkatesa was born in Sukla year, Ani month on Sravanam Star. His mother is the daughter of PeriyaTirumalaiNambi. Azhagappiran did naming ceremony etc. according to Sastras. He was named Sri Venkatesa, who was later called EchchampadiJeeyar. He obtained Chowlam, Upanayanam etc. besides learning Vedas and other things from their father and got married. Later, Azhagappiran advised both of his sons to be the disciples of Sri Ramanuja by approaching him. Accordingly, they prostrated before Sri Ramanuja and learnt all Sastras and decorated 74 Simhasanathipatis in 2 distinct places.

After some time, Sri Venkatesa, who is knowledgeable, received sainthood from Sri Ramanuja. Since then, he was called EchchampadiJeeyar and he was prominent in the propagation of Sri Ramanuja’s Sri Bhashya, DivyaPrabandham, Rahasyas etc. by worshipping Lord Nrusimha as his personal deity.
Every one of us deserves a place in Sri VAIKUNTAM, and enjoy the eternal Bliss by doing service at the feet of the Divine couple. But we have been swept away by the stream of Karma and are suffering from different kind of miseries in this material world. Some may think that they are enjoying the present life but they should realize that whatever we enjoy in this world is short lived and is very much limited in quantity. Even the short lived enjoyments are mixed with miseries or result in miseries in the end for some. But the scriptures which are held as sacred, such as Vedas, Srimad Ramayana, Srimad Bhagavadgita and likewise, ensure everlasting happiness without any limitation whatsoever and without any tinge of sorrow. When one realizes this, he will try to escape the clutches of Samsara (the miserable life in this miserable world) and attain Moksha (Salvation) which is otherwise known as BLISS.

Then how to attain Salvation? Can everyone irrespective of Caste, Creed, and Community can attain Moksha?

Fortunately our Acharyas in their great wisdom, have time and again propagated the paths to reach Sri Vaikuntam, as laid down in our Holy Scriptures, two paths, namely Bhakti and Prapathi.

Lord Sriman Narayna has himself said in Ahirbudhinya Samhita)-

Bkathyaa paramayaa vaapi
Prapathyaa vaa Mahaamathe I Praapyoham naanyathaah
praapyo mama kainkarya lipsubi: II

By means of Bhakti or Prapathi, I am attainable, in order to serve me in Sri VAIKUNTAM, the Bliss and not attainable by any other source.

Srimad Bhagavadgita deals elaborately these paths in eighteen chapters. In Bhagavad Gita, Lord Sri Krishna teaches, Karma Yoga, Jnana Yoga which culminate in Bhakti Yoga. Finally he teaches the alternate path of Prapathi for Salvation.

We shall go through the two paths of Salvation in brief in this article.

First we may understand that we are destined to be born in this material world, which is full of miseries, as a punishment for having transgressed the orders of the Lord as laid down in the Holy Scriptures, in our earlier births. In order to get Salvation, we have to please the Lord and entreat Him to shower His blessings. The two paths mentioned above will invariably please Him and in turn we are sure to get Salvation.

BHAKTI YOGA :

It is to meditate ceaselessly on Sriman Narayana till the Lord is fully pleased and is ready to grant SALVATION. Of course all may not be able to practice this path, as it requires knowledge, and capacity to follow, in a strenuous way. This is said to be having eight difficult steps - namely, Yama, Niyama, Aasana, Pranayama, Pratyahara, Dharana, Dhyana and Samadhi (To be learnt from an acharya). This yoga may not be completed in the present birth itself and it may require some more births to fully please the Lord.
It is said that there are three stages in this yoga - called Para Bhakti, Para Jnana and Parama Bhakti. When the last stage of Parama Bhakti is reached the Lord is said to be pleased and grants Salvation. Hence it is said to be Time-consuming method. If one wants Moksha at his will, preferably at the end of the present life, this yoga may not be suitable. One great advantage of this Yoga is that one feels extremely happy, while practicing itself. (Lord Krishna says in Srimad Bhagavad Gita that he will be attainable by Bhakti Yoga only).

PRAPATHI YOGA:

The Lord Himself has declared this Yoga as an alternate to Bhakti Yoga (refer sloka quoted earlier). This is also called Saranagati. It can be practiced by everyone irrespective of Caste, Creed or Community. It is a case of total surrender of oneself at the Holy feet of the Lord. Explaining one’s inability to perform Bhakti Yoga, he requests the Lord Himself to take the place of Bhakti Yoga and entreats Salvation. Even though, this yoga seems to be simple and easy to perform, it requires Maha Viswasam (steadfast faith) that the Lord will protect Him at all cost. This yoga requires six important things to be practiced.

1. Vow to abide the orders of the Lord as laid down in Scriptures – Anukulyasya Sankalpa.
2. Refraining from doing anything that would displease the Lord-(Pratikulasya Varjanam).
4. Krapanayam- One should express his inability to protect his soul by himself.
5. One should entreat the Lord to protect his soul –Goptruthva Varanam.
6. Total surrender of the soul at the feet of the Lord.

By this total surrender, the Lord gets extremely pleased and liberates him from all sins and grants him Salvation at the end of the present life, preferably. In fact the Lord is prepared to grant Moksha at once, if only the person wants so, to do service at His holy feet at Sri VAIKUNTAM.

The Lord in three of His incarnations, has proclaimed that He will protect everyone who surrenders at His feet, which have come to be known as Charama Slokas. We shall briefly go through contents of the same.

Sri Varaha Charama Sloka:

Lord Varaha, when requested by goddess Bhooma Devi proclaimed:

“If one, when his body, mind and physical systems are in good condition, surrenders unto Me, once, I, on my part, even when he is lying unconscious in the deathbed like a piece of wood and stone, remember him, will lead him to my abode, SRI VAIKUNTAM where he will enjoy supreme Bliss.

Sri Rama Charama Sloka:

Vibhishana advised Ravana to return Sita to Sri Rama, Ravana and his followers scolded him. Then Vibhishana came to the northern bank of the Ocean and sought asylum at the feet of Sri Rama. However, Sugriva and his assistants opposed it. In spite of heavy opposition, the Lord, accepted Vibhishana’s surrender and proclaimed:

“If anyone surrenders once, entreatng that he belongs to Me, I shall expel his fear from all. It is my steadfast vow”. Here the commentators have explained that the Lord will expel even the fear of rebirth in this world.

Sri Krishna’s Charama Sloka:

In his famous preaching to Arjuna, the Bhagavad Gita, at the battle field of Kurukshethra, the Lord proclaims:

“Unable to perform any dharma(Bhakti Yoga), as prescribed in scriptures, you seek refuge unto Myself only, I on my part, being Omnipotent, will relieve you of all kinds of sins which may result in rebirths. Thereafter you need not worry about Salvation”.

Thus we see that the Lord has Himself proclaimed the Saranagati / Prapathi marga, the path to Salvation. Our Acharyas have explained and guided us. Performing total surrender at the feet of the Lord, through our Acharyas, we are sure to get our deserved place in Sri Vaikuntam.

Srimathe Venkatesaya Namah...
Saintly persons and devotees always glorify the divine qualities of Prahlada Maharaja. In any assembly, wherein discussion takes place about devotees or saintly persons, there will certainly be the mention of Prahlada for a happy hearing. “How come, with such a divine and pious son like Prahlada, his father Hiranyakashipu developed great enmity?” — was the very question by king Yudhisthir Maharaja that triggers the narration of the story of Prahlada by sage Narada in the eighth canto of SrimadBhagavatam. Story of a devotee should be heard through another devotee only for taking full advantage of it. The story of great Prahlada was heard by king Yudhisthir through sage Narada in the presence of the supreme lord Sri Krishna. Let’s know the details as under.

Having decided to take revenge on his brother’s death, Hiranyakashipu started severe austerity to become immortal. He went to the valley of Mandara mountain and stood just on toes with both hands raised towards sky and started praying to Lord Brahma. His severe austerity caused a great panic amongst demigods, who rushed to Lord Brahma to express their concern and requested for an immediate action. Actually, this is the reaction of demigods when all the worlds began feeling endangered due to the severity of demon’s austerity. Lord Brahma went to the place of austerity along with saints like Bhrugu and Daksha, and got astonished to see the determination of Hiranyakashipu in performing the austerity. The demon’s body was almost eaten by ants and he was just surviving with his life air present in bones. Lord Brahma became very pleased with him and addressed him saying, “My dear Hiranyakashipu! Be blessed. Now you stop your austerity. I am ready to give any boon that you wish. You have performed such a severe asurity that is not possible even for great saintly persons”. He sprinkled water from his kamandala on the body of Hiranyakashipu for restoring him original power. By the power of that sacred water, Hiranyakashipu gained unlimited power and appeared with great effluence. He offered obeisance to Lord Brahma and expressed his desire as under.

“My dear Lord! Please award me immortality. I want to be free from death. I want the boon of freedom from death. I should not die either inside nor outside of a house; neither during daytime nor night time; neither on the earth nor in the sky. Please give me this boon. I should not die in the hands of anyone whom you have created. I shall not die by any weapon, by any human being, by any demigod, by any great serpent of lower planetary system. In battle field no rival should be able to stand in front of me. Award me complete sovereignty over all demigods. Also award me eight mystic powers to full extent”.

Though the boons asked by Hiranyakashipu are impossible to be obtained, Lord Brahma awarded them out of mercy. In fact, he said the same thing to demonic king and returned to his abode. Immediately, Hiranyakashipu started showing his dark side of behaviour by attacking all the three worlds. He conquered all them and made the palace of Indra as his abode. He made all demigods to bow down to him everyday. He started ruling the three worlds without the help of them. Then all the demigods approached Lord Vishnu, who is the protector of all surrendered souls. At that time, they heard a divine voice as under.

“My dear demigods! Do not fear. Let there be complete auspiciousness to you all. Please be engaged in my glorification. Hear my divine pastimes. All these activities are meant to award great boons to all living entities. I know well the atrocities of Hiranyakashipu. I will check them soon. Please bear with all those tortures. As soon as he begins atrocities against his divine son, who is humble and devoted, I shall kill him. I will destroy him despite all the exceptional boons granted by Lord Brahma”.

After hearing the words of assurance from Lord Vishnu, all the demigods became confident, could foresee the imminent death of Hiranyakashipu and happily returned to their homes. They started looking forward for the auspicious moment of world’s relief from Hiranyakashipu’s atrocities.

Hiranyakashipu had four sons. Bhakta Prahlada was the best of all. Though he was just five years old, he exhibited boundless divine qualities and was embodiment of virtues. He was quite inquisitive to know about absolute truth. He was very compassionate towards all living entities like the Supersoul. He was acting as friend towards all, serving as servant to the elders, behaving like a father towards the poor, loving the peers as brothers and treating the teachers as Gods. He was always free from ego though endowed with high parentage, beauty and wealth. Though born in a demonic family, he acquired devotion to Lord Vishnu. He never envied any devotee. Nor he got disturbed in any adverse situation. He left all attachments towards all material things.

Indeed he was not at all interested in playing and recreation. His consciousness was always absorbed in Lord Krishna. Because of Krishna consciousness, he used to wonder why the world doesn’t come to Krishna despite so many troubles around it. With his consciousness immersed in Lord Krishna, he didn’t realise how all activities like eating, sitting, walking, speaking, taking food etc. are taking place. They were happening automatically without his attention. He used to see Lord Krishna every moment and used to cry out of ecstasy. He used to laugh, cry, dance and shout with various moods of devotional ecstasy. He used to feel the separation from Lord Krishna and become morose at once. But, as soon as he will see Krishna coming towards him, he will become ecstatic saying, “Oh, my Lord is coming”. Sometimes he used to enact the pasttimes of the Lord out of deepest love. All these divine qualities of Prahlad make anyone purified though they don’t know the divinity of such qualities.

King Hiranyakashipu accepted Sukracharya as his spiritual master. Sukracharya’s sons namely Shanda and Amarka used to stay close by to the king’s palace in an ashram. Hiranyakashipu made arrangements for Prahlada’s education at the same ashram. Though the teachers were teaching many subject matters like politics, warfare and economics, Bhakta Prabhlada never showed any interest in them. He was constantly immersed in the divine remembering of Lord Vishnu. In this way, his education continued for sometime.
My obeisance to you, O! Goddess Lakshmi
Ever cheerful, powerful and energetic,
Adorned with different kinds of jewelry!
With hands tender like lotuses,
Bestowing fortune & prosperity,
With lotus, conch and opulence overflowing by your side
Assuring fearlessness fulfilling the desires of devotees,
And attended upon by the divine trinity—
Brahma, Vishnu, Maheshwara and others!

Salutations to You! O! Goddess Lakshmi,
Lotus-eyed! Holding lotuses in hands,
Dressed in dazzling white garments,
Adorned with fragrant garlands,
And radiating divine aura!
O! Goddess! Most beloved to Srihari,
Most charismatic, Source of well-being of the three worlds,
Shower your grace upon me!

Adi month (July-Aug) is known as Kadagam, is an important month in the 12 months of the year. If we divide a year into two-halves, the first six months (from mid-January to mid-July) form the equinox. At the end of the equinox, the period of the Dakshinayana starts. Night time begins for the celestial gods in the month of Aadi. The Devas are excited about celebrating many festivals. In this month, every Friday is a special day for Goddess Mahalakshmi.

Nagachaturthi:

Nagachaturthi is an auspicious day to observe Naga Puja. It comes after the new moon in the month of Adi and the next day is Garudapanchami. Sesha and Garuda have always been doing tireless service to the Lord. In Vaishnavism, Adishesha, in the form of a serpent (naga), is always with Lord in Vaikuntam, in the milky ocean, or in idol form (archa) in temples.

Alwars sing proudly the glory of Lord Vishnu and Adisesha’s devotion towards him as: “Whenever the Lord leaves anywhere, Adisesha acts as an umbrella to protect him from rain and heat. Wherever He sits, Adisesha forms himself like a throne. He acts as sandals (Paduka) for the Lord not to hurt His soft feet. If the Lord reclines in the sea of milk, he will be a soft bed and act as a float. He wraps around the Lord like gossamer silk and becomes an arm-rest for the Lord”.

In the commencement of some rituals, it is customary to construct the Gangam (holy thread), in which, they will invite AshtaNagas ritually.

In the Mahabharata, king Parikshit, father of Janamejaya, died by snakebite. He had been cursed by a sage to die so, the curse having been consummated by the serpent-chieftain Takshak, Janamejaya bore a deep grudge against the serpents for this act, and thus decided to wipe them out altogether. He attempted this by performing a great SarpaSatra – a sacrifice that would destroy all living serpents. Many snakes were drawn and fell in the fire of that yaga and died. At that time, a learned sage named Astika, a boy in age, came and interfered.

Janamejaya had listened to the words of the learned Astika and stopped the yaga. After this, the Nagas approached Lord Brahma, who assured them that in their next birth, they would be worshipped as Gods. Therefore, in the month of Shravana on ShuklapakshaPanchami, Naga Panchami is celebrated as a day of snake worship.

Women observe strict fasting on this propitious day and revere snake god by conducting Naga Devata Puja. Those who celebrate the Naga Chaturthi, will be blessed with prosperity, children and happiness.

Garuda Panchami

Garuda, who always carries Lord Vishnu on his back, has descended in the month of Adi, in the star Swathi, on Panchamitithi. Garuda Panchami marks the love and affection of mother and son and bond between one another. The festival is dedicated to Garuda, periyathiruvadi, the vehicle and the flag of Lord Vishnu, for his love for his mother Vinata.

Lord Krishna says in the Bhagavadgita – vainateyashcapakshinam, “Among the birds, I am Garuda.”

The king of all birds, Garuda has many names—Subarnan, Devasrupan, Padakendran Mangalalayan and has six virtues such as wisdom, strength, tejas, shakti, aishwarya, efficacy.

In the Vedic literature, it is stated that the two wings of the transcendental bird Garuda, are two divisions of the Sama Veda known as brihat and rathantara. When Garuda flaps his wings, one can hear the chanting of the hymns from Sama Veda. Garuda is engaged in eternal service to Lord Vishnu in Vaikuntha. Every temple of Lord Vishnu has an idol of Garuda sitting in front of the Lord with folded hands.

Kasyapa Maharishi, son of Lord Brahma, has two wives Kadru and Vinata. The children born to Kadru are Nagas. Garuda and Aruna are the children born to Vinata.

Once upon a time, a contest was held between Kadru and Vinata on the condition that the loser should serve the winner along with her children. Kadru, the mother of the Nagas, succeeded by deceit. Garuda and Aruna suffered very badly as slaves with their mother. When asked how to break free from this ordeal, Kadru said: “If you bring nectar from the heavens, I will relieve you from this slavery”. Garuda departed to solve his mother’s suffering. Many prevented him from entering the gate of heaven. He fought with them and won.

Lord Vishnu was impressed with Garuda’s integrity as he did not take even a drop of the tempting nectar for himself and asked Garuda to ask a boon. Garuda immediately said that he wanted a position higher than Lord Vishnu. Vishnu the eternal trickster that he was, asked Garuda to adorn his flag and sit atop the flagstaff. Garuda was so taken over by the Bhakti of the great Lord Vishnu that he promised to be his mount or Vahana. Garuda’s mother and brother were released from the slavery.

The story about Garuda Panchami

Once upon a time there lived a girl with her seven brothers. The brothers used to go to the forest and cut down firewood for livelihood. The sister used to prepare food and feed them. One day while carrying food for his brothers, Garuda was flying in the sky holding a poisonous snake in his claws. The poisonous snake was not able to withstand the pain, and spit venom. A drop of the poison fell in the food being carried by the sister for her brothers. Unaware of this, the brothers who ate the poisoned food died immediately. So the grieved girl was crying for the loss. Lord Shiva appeared to her and said: ‘If you pray Garuda and observe fasting on Panchami, your brothers will regain life’.

Immediately, she performed Garuda PanchamiVratha, after putting seven knots to a yellow thread, and mixing it with soil and milk. By the grace of Garuda, her seven brothers survived.

It is customary for a woman to practice Garuda PanchamiVratha and Naga Chathurthi to resolve ailments and cure diseases. Observing fasting on these auspicious occasions will eliminate Naga Dhoshas that one may have in the horoscope, which is a barrier to marriage. A special Utsavam for the Garuda is held on the Garuda Panchami in the temples. In almost all the Perumal temples, there is a Garuda shrine near Dhwajastambham. Some temples have idols of Garuda. Many temples are equipped with Garuda vehicles. In Nachiyarkoil, Thirunaraiyur, near Kumbakonam, there is a stone Garuda. By worshipping this Garuda deity, one can have very special benefits. The Kal Garuda seva is held twice a year.

Garuda Panchami at Tirumala

Garuda Panchami is celebrated very specially in Tirumala. On that day, special poojas are held to Sri Malayappa swami and His Consorts. Most importantly that evening, a special Garuda Seva will take place. The procession with Veda parayanam and Dravidavedam will take place in four Mada streets. Thiruvenkadavan is the essence of all Upanishads of the Veda.

The parable of the Upanishad is the parabrahman, the symbol of the Veda; the Garuda means carrier of the Vedas. Hence the Paramatmathavam as Tirumalayappan, on the back of Garuda comes to the devotees. The aim of Garuda Seva festival is to show this.

Although many utsavams are celebrated, it is noteworthy that in the month of Aadi, Garuda seva is celebrated on panchamitithi.

On that day, special thirumanjanams and poojas are held with the recitation of the DivyaPrabandha. Malayappaswami is adorned with several sets of diamond ornaments, including a diamond crown, two-meter-long multi folded golden ‘SahasraNamaKasula Haram’ and a life-size precious gem set golden MakaraKanti Haram.

Well decorated Processional deity of Sri Malayappa Swami will be taken in procession on decorated Garuda Vahanam on the occasion of Garuda Panchami amidst chanting of “Govinda-Govinda” by the assembled devotees on the evening. On the completion of Procession, Kumbhahaarati is taken.

Thus, in the Aadi month, Garuda PanchamiUtsavam is observed in all Divyadesams, but it will be very special in Tirumala.

In different Yugas, different practices were observed to get the grace of God. In Kruta Yuga, penance was observed. In Treta Yuga, Yajnas and Yagas were in practice. In Dwapara Yuga ‘Vratas’ and ‘archanas’ were done. Srimadbhagavatam preaches that it is possible to attain the grace of the Almighty by doing mere ‘sankeerthanas’ along with good devotional practices in Kali Yuga.

 Krutetu dhayyato Vishnoh |

The same connotation of the above sloka is also expressed by Sri Sripadarayalu says:

Dhyanavu krutayugade |
 yajava yagnapu tretayugade |
 Danavamtakana devatarchaneyo |
 dwaparyugade |
 Aamanavaregestu phalavo astuphalavu |
 Ee kaliyugade ganade |
 yenalu kaikoduva Ranga Vittalaa ||

So, HrianyaKasipu did penance based on the ‘yuga’, ‘dharma’. King Dasaradha did ‘yagna’. Gopikas performed ‘vratas’. In Kaliyuga, it is enough to eulogize God with utmost devotion in the form of ‘keerthana’. Srimadbhagavatam very lucidly mentions that the result of eulogizing God by singing in the following words:

Eetavatala magha nirharanayapumsam |
 Samkeertanam bhagavato gunakarma nammam |
 Vikrussya putra maghavanyada jamilopi |
 Narayanete mriyamana eyaayamuktim |
 Prayena vedataditam namahajanoym |
 Devya vimohitamatirhathamaya yaalam |
 Trayyaam jade krutamatirmadhu |
 pushiitaayam |
 Vaitanike mahati karmani yujiyamaana: ||
Eulogizing the virtues of God in the form of a song is the best device for the eradication of sin and for liberation from hell. To this, Ajamila is the best illustration. Lord Yama opines that mere ‘naamasankeerthana’ with devotion is enough to get the fruits of salvation in heaven not by simple knowing the inherent meanings of the Vedas, not by knowing the ‘bhagavatha dharma’ clearly and simply not by wasting time in pursuing the yajnas and other sacrifices. “Naama samkeertanaadishno: dahyate bahu paatakaa”. It means that the heaps of sin would be burnt by singing the name of Lord Vishnu.

Besides, Lord Yama said to his servants that one who chants loudly the name of God with devotion would never be afraid of his punishment. “Sabvaatmanaa vidadhakhekhalu bhaavayogam | temena dandavarha yatya dhayayadya meesham”. Kunti Devi, the mother of Pandavas, opines that one who sings the glory of Lord Sri Hari and one who listens to the song of His grandeur and enjoys it would get divine transformation of mind and who serves the Lord Sri Hari would cross his ‘bhava sagaram’ very easily.

“Bhava pravaho paramam padambujam”. By eulogizing of the name of God, ignorance and sin would be removed. As soon as the sun rises, the darkness would be expelled from the world. When the winds blow, there would be no clouds. “Sankeertyamaano bhagavaanananta: —yadha tamorkobhrama vaativaaat”. Sri Madhvacharya preached that all sins would be melted away as the metal would melt with the touch of fire. Though, there are ‘padya’, gadya’, and ‘champoo’ classics in Dravidian language, there is a saying “sadya : phalati sangeetam”. In singing, there two significant things play wonderful roles in its style of music. One is instrumental music and the other is dancing style.

The ‘haridasulu’, along with the eulogy of God, created many wonderful and philosophical things to captivate the human heart and created attractive ‘raga’ and ‘taala’ which were convenient to ‘natya’. They gave devotional, affectionate, renunciating and spiritual feelings to their poetry even in different mixing relations like a king, a friend and a woman depending on the context by using the three styles in poetry like coconut, banana and grape styles by mixing them in necessary contexts. They also used to express the voice of Sri Vyasa in simple, easy and understandable Dravidian words and also express fine theoretical traditions for the devotees who listen and sing according to their worthiness.

Keerthisi janarella Hariya guna | Keerthisi janarukrutartha raagiro

Sri Sripadarayulu wishes that all devotees should praise the virtues of Lord Sri Hari and would be blessed by the Lord. In this context, he also referred to the great saint, Valmiki, the great devotee of Lord Rama, Sabari and the great chaste wife, Ahalya as they eulogized the glorious name of the Almighty.

Kaliyugadolu Harinaamavanenedare
kulakoti galuddharisuvuro
and naamakirthane anudina marpige narakabhayagalunte
Naama vamde yamanaalgala nodedu
Ajamanege suskhetva vittahari

Everyday who performs ‘naama sankeertham’ of Lord Sri Hari would have no fear of Hell. In Kaliyuga, Sri Purandaradasulu preaches that by praising the name of God all devotees would be blessed. All sins would be driven out by doing this activity as the groups of elephants would run when they see the young lion. The forest would burn due to the touch of fire and the darkness would be expelled when the sun rises. The hills would crumble down due the operation of the thunderbolt and the snakes would fear when they see Garuda.

“Gaanavapaadidava Harimurty nodidava”. If a devotee sings with devotion he would see Sri Hari Murty. It is one of the ways of Yoga. Sri Vijayadasulu says “Gaanalolana kullirisi dhyanadinda bhajisuve”. Sri Hari is a lover of songs. So devotees wish to pray to Him in the form of singing only. A child, an animal, a snake and other creatures move their heads while singing is going on. By playing and singing the devotees worship Lord Sri Hari and would get their deliverance. In Harikathamruthasaram, Sri Jagannadhadasulu used to say that a person who practises the ‘keerthanam” of Lord Sri Hari with devotional enthusiasm would get his prosperity and better livelihood. In times of severe ill-health and in difficult circumstances, Lord Vittal would come to his rescue by offering His hand and makes him cross the ‘bhavasagaram’.

of all times. It has become the reason for a healthy, wealthy and virtuous life. By preserving virtualness and worthiness in it, it has become world literature.

The eulogies of deities and the preachings of remuneration have occupied as standardized ones in the ‘keerthanas’ of the hari dasas of Karnataka. Worshipping the Indian deities, they finally dedicated it to Lord Vittal. From Sripadarayalu to the present ‘hari dasas’, they chiefly worship Lord Ganapati, Goddess like Parvati, Vaaruni, Saparni, Bharati, Saraswathi, Lords like Garuda, Sesh, Rudra, the three incarnations of Lord Vayu, Goddess Mahalakshmi and the ‘leela’ incarnations of Lord Sri Hari for achieving their divine motto. Sri Purandaradasulu expresses his international devotional ideology in the following lines:

\text{Satata Gananadha siddhiya neeva kaaryadali} | \\
\text{Mati prerisuvalu Parvathi Devi} \\
\text{mu-Kutipadhake manaveeva maharudraDevaru} \\
\text{haribha-Kuti daayakalu Sri Bharati} \\
\text{Devi-yu kutu saastragalalli vanajasambhavanarasi} \\
\text{Satkarma galanadesi sujana matiyattu} \\
\text{Garitpaliswama namma guru Pavaamaanaru} \\
\text{Chittadali aanandassuhava neevalu Ramaabha} \\
\text{Kuta janarodaya Sripurandara Vittalantu} \\
\text{Satata evarolu ninta eekr uti nadesuvanu} ||

For success in every action, one prays to Lord Ganapati. Goddess Parvati promotes good mind and heart. Lord Rudra drives the minds of His devotees towards salvation. Goddess Bharati promotes devotion in the minds of the devotees. Goddess Saraswathi Devi grants scientific knowledge and wisdom. Lord Hanuman gives His devotees good position. Goddess Rama Devi offers happiness to one’s heart. After the worship of all deities, he entreated the Supreme Lord Sri Purandara Vittal to grant him His abundant grace. He also praised all the other deities individually. He used to eulogize the ten divine incarnations of Lord Sri hari, their ‘leelas’ and other divine incarnations also in an artistic and elegant way.

Out of all, he especially eulogized the divine incarnations of Lord Narasimha, Lord Srirama and Lord Krishna by singing more and more ‘keerthanas’. Let us practise the method of singing ‘keerthanas’ of Lord Vishnu for His abundant grace !

J ust a stone’s throw from the old bus stand of Karaikal on Bharathiar Road, earlier known as Poraiyar Road, stands an oldest Hindu temple in the city of Karaikal, an enclave of Pondicherry. It is the temple for Lord Somanathar and his consort Somanayaki.

This temple not only attracts the pious minded Hindus, but also people of different walks of life who brush aside caste, religion and creed. It is all because of the open ground in front of the temple. It serves as a forum for many public meetings with a political, literary and religious thrust in them.

Adjoining this temple is the wedding dais and the shrine of Punithavathi who became Saint KaraikalAmmaiyar.

What is so special about this Saint who lived in the 5th century that she deserves a temple?

The great poet Seikhizhar in his monumental work Periyapuranam also known as ThiruThondarPuranam, a portrait gallery of 63 canonised Saivite saints, tells the story of this saint in 66 quatrains.

In the famous seaport town of Karaikal, inhabited by merchants noted for their virtue, truthfulness and wealth, lived an affluent merchant, called Danadattan. He was blessed with a daughter, Punithavathi meaning ‘the immaculate’. Ever since she was a child, she was given to the study of religious literature and to the service of god’s devotees. At the appropriate time, Punithavathi’s marriage with Paramadattan was arranged in Karaikal and the couple lived happily in Karaikal itself.

One day, Paramadattan sent two mangoes to his wife through a labourer from his business centre, with an instruction to keep them for his lunch.
An hour or so later a devotee of Lord Siva came begging for alms. Food was not ready at that time and Punithavathi did not want to disappoint the devotee. Therefore, she offered one of the ripe mangoes and appeased his hunger.

The husband returned home after business hours. When he sat down to lunch, Punithavathi served him food with the other ripe mango. It tasted so good that he asked for the other too. She did not know what to do. She went into the pooja room and prayed to Lord Siva to save her from her predicament. A ripe mango fell into her open palms from nowhere.

Punithavathi offered it to her husband. Finding the fruit bigger and tastier than the other, he asked her from where she got it. She related what actually had happened.

Paramadattan could not believe his ears and so was not convinced. Perhaps he thought his wife a liar and so told her to procure another such fruit, if what was obtained previously was by the grace of God.

Punithavathi prayed to the Lord again and the Lord too ungrudgingly gave her one more mango. She presented it to her husband. But it vanished from his hands the moment he held it.

Taken aback, Paramadattan realised that his wife was a divine being and he left her once and for all. He went to Madurai, settled there as a merchant and married a suitable woman. The couple was blessed with a girl child. The father named his baby after his abandoned wife.

The relatives of Punithavathi heard of the injustice done to her by her husband. And so they all went with Punithavathi to Madurai to plead for justice.

The moment Paramadattan saw his ex-wife, he prostrated before her. His wife and daughter followed suit. When the relatives asked for an explanation, he narrated all that had happened and told them of the divine qualities of Punithavathi. He also told them that they too should worship her.

Punithavathi, rejected and dejected, prayed to the Lord to bless her with the appearance of a fleshless skeletal body and allow her a place at His Divine feet.

Lord Siva did as was requested of him. He gave her a body that was so ugly and frightening that everyone there fell at her feet and offered obeisance to her.

Such is the greatness of KaraikalAmmaiyar. No one knows for certain when the Ammaiyr Temple, (a small shrine with a sanctum sanctorum) was built. And it must be borne in mind that the poet Seikhizar lived in the 12th century. But between 1927 and 1929 the temple was dismantled and completely rebuilt with the magnanimous donation offered by an ardent devotee named MalaiPerumal of Karaikal who graciously parted with Rs. One lakh even in those hard times.

The kumbabhishekam took place on Monday, 17th June 1929. The front gopuram with its 3 tier-structure resting on the concrete roofing structure without basement is the peculiarity of this temple.

No eye, unless it is blind, can ever miss seeing the thirukkulam or tank known as Amman Kulam with a mandapam in the centre of the tank housing Nandi, Lord Siva’s Bull. It was only in the tank theppam or float carrying deities made rounds with melodious music.

In honour of this eminent lady saint who lived in ancient Karaikal, an annual festival is conducted in this temple in the tamil month of Adi. Said to be celebrated for many centuries, this festival, known as Mangani festival, commemorates the salvation attained by Punithavathi through the medium of a ripe mango.

It is a 4-day festival that reaches the height of its celebration on the full moon day in Adi, which is the last week of June or the first week of July. It is only on this day the idol of Lord Siva dressed as a mendicant is taken out for a procession. And the devotees scatter ripe mangoes in the crowd for the people to catch or pick up. Since it is commonly believed that the scattered mangoes have the divine power of blessing the so far barren wombs, one can see many a married woman vie with each other to get one for them. The faith in the blessing power of such mangoes is so great that people interested in the welfare of their relatives in far off places ship them with great faith.

Two days prior to this mango scattering ceremony, the Mangani festival starts at 6 p.m. in the evening. A pooja is performed to Lord Ganesh in the Siddhi Vinayagar Temple at Karaikal. An hour or so later the idol of ParamadattanChettiyar is taken on a procession as a bridegroom to KaraikalAmmaiyar Temple.

Next day morning, Thirukalyanam, the wedding of Paramadattan and Punithavathi, takes place on the dais of the Temple, with lots of merriment and fanfare. By 10 a.m. the newly wedded couple is taken in a procession on a flower decorated palanquin called pushpapallakku. In the evening at about 6 p.m. the idol of Lord Siva from Kailasanathar Temple is taken for a stroll both in and around the temple premises. He is adorned with white flowers and his ornaments too are studded with white stones. This ceremony known as vellaisaatthi (white colour decoration) is symbolic of the snow-capped mountain dweller for the Lord is from Mt. Kailash.

By 3 a.m. on the full moon day a special pooja is performed to Lord Siva. A variety of fruits, other essential things used for oblation and also cooked white rice are poured on the idol. Finally after such costly baths, holy ash is poured on the idol. At 9 a.m. on the same day the idol— completely smeared with holy ash and dressed in a saffron cloth as befits a devotee of Lord Siva commonly called by the public as Pitchandamurthy— is taken in a procession along the main streets surrounding the Temple. As soon as the Lord’s coral chariot begins to move, ripe mangoes are scattered to the eager public. And on this day the natives of Karaikal treat their guests to a sumptuous dinner with vadai and payasam.

On His way to the KaraikalAmmaiyyar Temple, the common people honour the Lord with a garland made of vettiveir, two ripe mangoes, betel leaves and nuts, and a silken cloth—its cost ranging from Rs.35 to Rs.200, depending on their financial condition—all on a platter. The idol of Lord Siva is taken directly to the KaraikalAmmaiyyar Temple where Punithavathi offers Him food. And this ceremony called amudhupadaiyal (food offering) takes place at 6 p.m.

At 10 p.m. in the night Paramadattan abandons Punithavathi and his idol is taken in a procession on a ship like vehicle to Siddhi Vinayagar Temple (symbolic of Madurai city). At 12 p.m. he marries another woman and his daughter is named after his ex-wife Punithavathi. At 3 a.m. in the morning, Punithavathi, the abandoned wife, goes with her relatives to Madurai where her husband, his second wife and their daughter prostrate before Punithavathi.

Punithavathi’s renunciation of her beauty after her husband worshipped her divinity and her consequent transformation into an emaciated form is commemorated in a striking way. A skeleton, whose skull is adorned with vettiveir to resemble hair that has gone grey, is placed on a vehicle resembling a hearse cart decorated with strings of jasmine flowers hanging loose on all its four sides. This event marks the close of the ceremony.

The festival actually comes to a close exactly at 5 a.m. when Lord Kailasanathar (Siva) and His consort Sundarammal give darshan to KaraikalAmmaiyyar. During this ceremony all the street lamps are switched off and the procession moves slowly with ignited torches. The aroma of incense sticks that wafts through and mir permeates the nostrils of the participants. A chorus of singers singing verses from Thevaram and Thiruvachakam precedes the procession. It makes a real grand sight. The festival that is marked by processions, music and dance, and public speeches, is brought to a finale with an elaborate display of fire-works.

Tirumala Darshan

Annamayya reached Tirumala with excited feeling. On climbing hill, firstly, he took sacred bath in KoneitiPushkarini. Annamayya’s heart blossomed like white lotus on seeing the beauty of Swami Pushkarini. With overwhelming happiness, Annamayya visited the shrine of Varahaswami. From there, he stepped towards the dwelling place of Tiruvenkateswara, AnandaNilyam – the shrine that is considered as paradise on earth! On the way, he bowed down to Garuda dhwaja. From there, he proceeded towards the silver porch to circumambulateAnandaNilayam, where the main deity resides. He was very excited at the sight of so many important rooms on the way. He enjoyed the ghee smell of sweets & sumptuous savouries that was coming from temple’s kitchen room (referred as padipotu); while enjoying the delicious smell of ghee, his mind imagined the dinning etiquette of Srihari. He applauded the deity with his songs.

“Eipodhu ———— ——— dhaachinatlundin”

While circumambulating, in the pathway, he visited Yoganarasimha, Srimadramanujacharya. With utmost pleasure, he observed ardently the Horse Chariot, Garuda Chariot and Sesha Chariot that were used often to take Swami for procession, were placed in vehicle portico. From there, he moved towards Kalyanamandapam where the celestial wedding festivities celebrated. With ecstatic state of mind, he took a groat that was tied to the border of his scarf and offered his contribution in Srihari’s donation pot (Hundi) where the devotees of Srihari usually offer their large contributions with extreme fidelity.
Lord Venkateswara’s Darshan

Through Golden Gate, he entered the sanctum sanctorum, there:

-------------Karapankajambu.”

From the main entrance, Annamayya viewed the striking statue of Srihari; with the upper two arms holding the conch and chakra; embellished with ruby at navel; catching the weapon of Vishnu; lovely anklets tied to the ankles; the lower two arms in Katya and Varada posture; bright & beautiful ornaments to His ears; garlanded with real beads & pearl ornaments; richly adorned with the crown that has gems; carbuncle at the breast where specific mark is seen. Annamayya gained the thrilling experience on having the magnificent view of the celestial glory. He was enraptured at the very sight of the divine and admired Srihari with his impromptu Sankeerthanas.

“Kanti ---------------Veedikonti’
‘PodagantimayyamimmuPurushothama——
------------------------Srinivasudaa”!

After receiving the sweet rice (the Divine Prasadam) from the priest, Annamayya went to his abode. That night, he was unable to sleep. He filled his whole eyes with the holy being, Sri Venkateswara. The very next day, early in the morning, he visited the other important sites- Kumaradara, Amarateertham, Akasaganga, Papavinasanam. After enjoying the ambiance of Teerthas, he thought of visiting the main shrine of the deity. He headed towards the temple to have a darshan of Swami but by the time he reached the place, the temple doors were locked. In anguish, he eloquently said Sathakam on Alivelumangapathi (Venkateswara). To others’ surprise, the doors got unlocked and widely opened to get inside. The priests who were observing the entire event were enthralled. They honoured BalaAnnamayya and took him to the main deity. Annamayya continued to sing on having the splendid view of Lord Venkateswara, embellished with golden ornaments, being considered as ‘Kalpatharu’ (the Wish-granting Tree) to his devotees. He prayed Swami with respect and devotion-“Dhara -----------------nizamaivardhilali”.

The performance of Archana by the priest moved Annamayya. He repeated the poem (Sathaka) that he had said previously. Swami blessed him with kindness. At the very instant, as an acknowledgement, Swami’s pearl necklace fell on His feet. With surprise, the priest commented that the boy was an extraordinary boy having the fortune of receiving the blessings of Lord Venkateswara Swami. The people of the place looked at the boy with admiration on listening to the words of priests. From then, every day, Annamayya visited the temple & sang the Sankeerthanas roaming all the streets.

Annamayya’s Vaishnava Panchasamskara

Lord Venkateswara, who is known as Bhaktavatsala, was moved with Annamayya’s musical performance. One day, Lord Venkateswara Swami appeared in the dream of His devotee GhanaVishnu. Swami instructed him, “TallapakaAnnamayya is my devotee- a boy, unmarried, wears ear ornaments, dressed in silk clothes, playing Tumbura instrument while singing Sankeerthanas. He made me happy. Tomorrow, he will come to you. Without wasting time, convert him with Shankachakralu (Vaishnavism)”. Immediately, Ghana Vishnu woke up from his sleep and thanked Swami for choosing him to complete His work. To follow the instructions of Lord Venkateswara, Ghana Vishnu woke up early in the morning, completed his routine works quickly, took the metal marks of Shanka and Chakra, came out to his pavilion and waited for Annamayya. Exactly, at the same time, Annamayya, singing Srihari’s Sankeerthanas, approached the domicile of Ghana Vishnu. Ghana Vishnu observed the similarities in BalaAnnamayya. He was exactly the way Srihari described in his dream. He felt happy that he was about to fulfil the command of Swami / Srihari. He called the boy to him, asked his name, introduced himself and bowed his head before him. The boy also showed respect to him. Does one need to show the light to the person who is in search of light in deep darkness? Does one need to introduce the teacher to a person who is eagerly waiting for knowledge? Ghana was happy at the respect that was shown to him.

“Oh Saintly looking boy! Do you accept the mark that I lay on you?”

Saying these words, he took the acceptance of Annamayya. Thereby, as instructed in his dream, the ritual of conversion was performed and then Annamayya was taken into the fold of Shankachakra (i.e Vaishnavism).

Return journey to Tallapaka

Annamayya’s parents NarayanaSuri and Lakkamamba, out of their sheer love, started searching various places for their child. They requested Lord Venkatesa to return their son. With confidence, they focused their search on TirumalaTirupati. The couple was extremely happy on seeing their son in the presence of God, singing Sankeerthanas. Lakkamamba, Annamayya’s mother melted on seeing her child. She insisted her son to return home. Annamayya refused to do so. She felt very unhappy. Unable to see her sadness, even the priests tried to convince him saying that the God whom he is praying is present even in his place. Annamayya did not listen to them.

That day night, while Annamayya was sleeping, Swami appeared in his dream and said “your lineage can teach Vedas and Upanishads to others. Try to understand that the body and the soul that the body possesses are different. Keep in your mind that each species on earth is equal to you. Put your burdens and responsibilities on me and prostrate. I bless you with fortune. Listen to your mother’s words and go with her!” Saying those words, He motivated Annamayya. Annamayya woke up from his sleep and said about his dream to his parents. Considering his dreams as the command of Swami, Annamayya reached his village with his parents.

Man considered that a place without a temple is not fit for human habitation. Some elite, had rightly said that “Man is an anthropomorphic and is inclined to conceive God in vivid and pictorial form and cannot express his mental attitude except through symbolism and art”.

The first temples were cave temples constructed at Ellora, Ajanta. While temples like that of Tirumala Lord Venkateswara, Sri Rangam and Madurai Meenakshi etc., symbolize the grandeur, temples of Konark, Kazuraho, Belur temples in the country are breathtaking for their intrinsic detail in rock and expressing sheer monumental value alone. The temple architecture is mostly known after the dynasties that produced them like Pallava, Chola, Pandyas, Hoyasala etc., The construction of Hindu temples on a large-scale was undertaken by the Gupta emperors who were great patrons of art and it was during their period that all principal sects thrived. During 13th and 14th centuries, temple development took place very rapidly in the South region.

The towering temples with lofty architectural skill were constructed by the Pallavas and the successive dynasties of Chalukya, Pandyas and Cholas. The Vijayanagara emperors, the greatest of whom was Krishnadevaraya, were great temple builders and patrons of arts and literature.

The impact of the temples on the society need not be over exaggerated. They had encouraged not only art but also architecture. They also serve as educational institutions giving a lot of information about our ancient Indian culture and tradition. Temples transform human life spiritually.
Idol Worship:

The image in a temple is worshipped as a replica of God emanating divine power. Worshipping some sort of symbols and idols in their honour, is an established fact in the history of human civilization. There is enough evidence to believe that the science of murtisilpa or iconography did exist even in the Vedic period. Worship of deities through images in the temples seems to have been fairly well-established over the centuries. With the popularity and evolution of image worship, Hindu iconography has been continuously growing and evolving, voluminous literature on the science and art came into existence over years.

The images or idols in the temples can, of course, be of any size, but should be big enough to be seen by a large number of devotees. The permanently fixed/self-manifested images called dhruvabera are of three types: (a) the stanaka (in the standing posture), the asina (in the sitting posture); and the sayana (in the reclining posture). The images of the most of the gods and goddesses in the temples are of the first type. The images of Devi, Ganapati and Narasimha are of the second type. Only the images of Vishnu like those of Padmanabha in Trivendrum, Ranganatha in Sri Rangam and Govindaraja in Tirupati are of the last type. Lord Shiva is worshipped both with and without form, most commonly without form as the Lingakaara.

Visiting temples and taking a dip in the sacred rivers/pushkarinis attached to the temples and worshipping of deities have become integral parts of Hindu religious way of life.

Let us worship the Lord in the temples and get spiritual bhakti.
To achieve anything in this world, one needs the power of austerity, which in Sanskrit is called “tapobalam”. As per the Puranic narrations, even demons did severe austerities to bring the world under their control by unlimited prowess. Actually, the first sound that was heard at the time of creation was “tapa”, means austerity. The first being, Lord Brahma, who was born in the lotus that emanated from the navel of Lord Vishnu, heard the word “tapa” twice when he got confused about the actual purpose of his appearance. However, after hearing the word tapa, he engaged himself in austerity and gained immense power to carry on with the creation. But human beings need not carry out severe austerity like demons. They can carry out three types of simple, yet effective austerities in order to achieve success in life through tapobalam, as Bhagavad-Gita delineated. So, all the human beings, especially the youth shall take cognizance of the three types of austerities that are pertaining to body, mind and words and as told by Lord Krishna in Bhagavad-Gita.

Lord Krishna, the speaker of Bhagavad-Gita, spoke about the austerity of body as the first amongst the three austerities that are compulsory. “Austerity of body consists in worship of the Supreme Lord, the brahmanas, the spiritual master, and superiors like parents, and in cleanliness, simplicity, celibacy and nonviolence”, as defined by Bhagavad-Gita (17.14). Every civilized human being shall do this austerity of the body every day. In fact, we see the youth performing such austerity sometimes. Offering obeisance to God and parents by the young people during examination time is a common scene in all houses. Similarly, on birthdays or after achieving high ranks in examinations, the youth tend to offer respects to parents quite instinctively. However, as per the instruction of the Gita, the Supreme Lord, brahmanas, spiritual master and the parents shall be offered respect on daily basis. This is a part of austerity pertaining to body. When children offer respect, the parents, naturally, feel delighted and incessantly shower blessings. Offering respects to elders daily is actually the Vedic culture. Anyone carrying out this activity for at least a month without break will surely experience the power of Bhagavad-Gita. If one offers respect to a brahmana in a temple, only boons will be received in return.

Apart from the above point, cleanliness and simplicity are also categorized as austerity of the body. Cleanliness refers to both internal and external cleanliness of an individual. Only external cleanliness is visible to eyes, but the internal cleanliness is known through the behavior or words. It means words and action reveal the internal cleanliness. Taking bath twice a day amounts to external cleanliness, whereas spending at least thirty minutes in meditation or chanting the holy names of the Lord relate to internal cleanliness. Meditating on the holy name of the Lord surely clenses the heart as the scriptures revealed at various places. Humbleness and softness in behavior are defined as simplicity. It also applied to style of living. Living without any extravagance amounts to simplicity. This is the effect of mode of goodness. Celibacy also comes under austerity of body. Nowadays, many persons are seen taking austerity in the name of some religion. In all such austerities, celibacy becomes part and parcel. This is the most important quality that the youth should practice. This is very much stressed in the Gita and seen being preached by various saintly persons. By strict celibacy, youth become peaceful and pure at heart. The next point is non-violence. Refraining from meat eating tantamounts to non-violence. By following a vegetarian diet, the mind becomes blithe and soft, thus making the body very healthy. This is indeed considered as austerity of body. In this way, anyone, especially the youth, who adopt austerity of body and its components become endowed with all power to achieve all the desired results in the life. One can test this point personally right away. One can take up a vow to follow all the components of austerity of body for at least 30 days systematically by logging actions date-wise in a book with clarity on the goals to be achieved. Anyone who takes up this exercise surely experiences the blissful power of the Gita by practical experience. All the best to all such inquisitive youth!
The famous ancient Ayurvedic compendium, Sushruta Samhita narrated what is the sumptuous and healthy food to consume. It stated that the food should be exceptional, refined, interesting to eat, provide different taste, look appetizing, hygienic and fresh. Usually, Coriander seeds are used to make food tasty, colourful and give a pleasant aroma. These seeds are very useful in providing good health and mitigate several unhealthy conditions. They are called dhanyaka in Sanskrit. Coriander plant belongs to Umbelliferae category and its scientific name is coriandrum sativum.

Burning sensation in the stomach and heaviness in head:

Mix 50 grams powder of each Coriander seeds, cumin seeds and candy sugar. Take 2-3 grams of this mixed powder in 50 ml water daily twice in the morning and evening.

Pimples:

VachChurnam and Sugandhi Pala Churnam are available in Ayurvedic shops. Add these two powders to Coriander seeds powder in equal quantity. Make a paste with adequate quantity by mixing water. Apply on the pimples and wash after one hour. Regular use of this paste will bring a glow to the face.

Treatment of Menorrhagia (heavy menstrual bleeding):

Mix equal quantities of Coriander seeds powder and sugar. Take one or two grams of this powder mixed in 50 ml water thrice a day. This can also be used for stopping blood from mouth and nose.

Excess body heat:

Fifty grams each of Coriander seeds powder, poppy seeds powder, 100 grams of kismis (raisin, / dry grapes) and 100 grams of Ati madhurachurnam available in ayurvedic shops should grinded to a smooth powder. Mix this powder in half a kilo cow ghee. Take one teaspoon of this twice a day. Thereafter drink 100 ml of milk. This will also reduce burning in eyes, fingers, body and allergy in the mouth.

Bedwetting:

Take 25 grams each of Coriander seeds powder, dried pomegranate flowers, Thumma Banka (natural gum), black gingelly (sesame) seeds and candy sugar. This mixed powder of 2-3 grams should be taken twice a day mixed in water. For children, only one-gram powder should be taken.

Cracks in palms and knee:

Take 200 ml of water. Add 5 grams of Coriander seeds, cumin seeds, ThatiKalakanda (palm candy crystals) and a small piece of ginger. Boil these ingredients in water till the water reduces to 100 ml. Cool the water. Drink the distilled water. It purifies the blood and will also reduce all skin diseases.

Gout:

Boil 200 ml of water adding 2-3 grams of Coriander seeds powder and smashed dry dates till it reduces to 100 ml. Taking the water regularly reduces the excess Uric Acid in the body.

Vertigo or dizziness:

Add one teaspoon of Coriander seeds powder, the shell of gooseberry in 200 ml of water and store it overnight in an earthen pot. Drink the water next day morning.

Increased memory:

Make a powder of 30 grams each of Coriander seeds powder, fennel seeds, cardamom, suma almonds (should be soaked in water overnight and peel), and candy sugar. Two to three grams of this powder mixed in 100 ml of lukewarm milk should be taken at bedtime.

Tallapaka Annamacharya was born to gather the common multitude into one tremendous group for enriching the Bhagavata tradition that has been in existence since the Vedic period. He wrote in Sanskrit too, poems that have a regal grace. The simple and mellifluous (‘Italian of the East’) Telugu poems, however, have a dramatic effect, as though we see the composer acting out the lines, like “Adigo, alladigo, Sriharivasamu”. How can one bring into English the depth of spirituality and rainbow hues of human emotions one finds in Annamayya? But these eminent singers of the Divine in Telugu (including Bhadrachala Ramadasu and Tyagaraja) have a steely strength within, the strength of a devotion that is unwavering, a devotion that treats the Divine as a comrade in one’s everyday life. That strength does help their survival in a foreign language.

Dr. Madabhushanam Rajagopalacharya has had to create afresh the original thoughts and feelings in a language that has no such history of the spiritual idiom. However, he knows a translator’s job is never easy and often they have been described as traitors to the original (traduttore-traditore), and rightly understands that “translation is an endless process”.

As erudite foreword by Prof. C.R. Visveswara Rao flags off High in the Sky at Vishnupada: Annamayya Sankirtanas in Translation, Dr. Lakshmana Murthy’s brief message underlines the multi-pronged studies needed to translate the songs of one who lived six centuries ago, who composed and sang his songs, and effectively combined poesy and music, was an ardent student of the Ramanuja Siddhanta and was a self-lost devotee of Lord Venkateswara. Fortunately, Prof. Rajagopalacharya has painstakingly managed to take his time in mastering the literature concerning these subjects.

The translations have been neatly planned in the presentation: The glory of Lord Venkateswara is presented in four sections: Holy Locale, Worship Idol, Nama Sankirtana, and Utsavas of the Lord. In the same manner, detailed headings help us when coming face to face with Goddess Alamel Manga, the Lord’s other manifestations, and Vishishtadvaita philosophy. It is a sumptuous feast as it comes with succinct commentaries for most of the translations. Having been a translator for more than six decades, I know how it is impossible to achieve a perfect translation. We do our best, and, the divine does the rest! Professor Rajagopalacharya has done his best and often a near-perfect translation in this important publication makes us stop in our tracks. The printed word withdraws and we see the original scenario and go back by six centuries. Ah, the Divine drama that knits together the past and the present to make us look into the future with trust and hope! Are we getting unnerved by the Pandemic that is raging all over the world? Just read, recite or sing “atade rakshakudu…”:

“Infinite Ananta wore gracefully
Infinite armaments in His infinite arms.
Where is the scope for fear then
For those of us who seek His refuge?”

High in the Sky at Vishnupada: Annamayya Sankirtanas in Translation is an educative, grace-laden gift for all times and is sure to be cherished by all lovers of Annamayya who seek to understand and enjoy the wonder and beauty of the Sankirtanas that have remained fresh as new blown lotuses till this day.
